Upstairs Arts and Technology Association, Inc.

A non-profit 5013C, tax-exempt Association dedicated to the arts, education, and technology started as the Upstairs Arts Association in 1972 on 9th and Broadway in Oakland. To reflect today's needs, the name was changed to Upstairs Arts and Technology Association, Inc. and its mission updated to promote, maintain, and further the arts and education through the use of technology as a vehicle to exhibit primary sources, to open dialogue, and to encourage sharing of resources locally and throughout the global community. The specific purposes are to promote arts and education programs included but not limited to exhibits, interviews, discussions, showcases, and resources, all of which can be conducted online supported with face-to-face events and to provide opportunities for people in the global community to use and share primary sources including have access to artists and subject matter experts.

The Upstairs Arts and Technology Association, Inc. sponsors the My eCoach® public eLibrary so copyright-friendly resources are free to the public. Funding supports
- development of a relational database and search engine where resources are aligned to themes, topics, curriculum, standards, and other resources;
- creation of activities, vocabulary, questions, and related resources for each resource;
- encouraging dialogue between teachers, students, artists, and subject matter experts;
- acquiring royalty-free primary sources for the eLibrary.
