Pick Up Your Room

Pick up your room, my mother says
 (She says it every day);
My room's too heavy to pick up
 (That's what I always say).

Drink up your milk, she says to me,
 Don't bubble like a clown;
Of course she knows I'll answer that
 I'd rather drink it down.

And when she says at eight o'clock,
 You must go right to bed,
We both repeat my answer:
 Why not go left instead?
